Technology: What Bio-Impedance Analysis is

Bio-Impedance Analysis (BIA) is a quick, simple, and non-invasive method for body composition measurements and assessment of functional disorders. The fundamentals of this technique rely on the rate at which electrical currents travel in the body. During biological processes, electrical changes occur. This technology measures the resistance to the flow of the electrical current through the tissues. Biological tissues provoke either an active or passive response. Dysfunction occurs when there is electrical (ionic reaction) impairment.

This approach also evaluates the bioelectric impedance of testing points when substances, such as medicines, herbs, supplements, and homoeopathic remedies, are placed in the same electrical circuit with the patient.

How the machine works

Text Expert Plus is a functional, in-depth, diagnostic, and screening device. It offers an articulated menu with a broad number of testing possibilities. The practitioner identifies the point for testing and decides on testing areas. The assessment can take up to one hour.

The Test Expert Plus has been used for over 30 years combining (BIA) and (EAV) methods. The machine facilitates a direct dialogue with the patient's organism.

The measurement takes place using only one reproducible point (either hands or feet) and a light frequency. A circuit is created between a hand electrode hold by the patients, a measuring stylus hold by the practitioner, and the machine. The organism has a reaction to test ampoules and the machine responds with a clear "yes" or "no".

- The device must be calibrated, and the measurement set to 80 scale units.
- If the following reading results in 80 scale units, there is no resonance between the test substance and the patient.
- If the patient's resistance increases, the measurement will decrease.
- If the patient's resistance decreases, the measurement will increase.

The measurements are visual to both the practitioner and the patient on display.

Test Expert Plus uses the unique integrated Vega-Duplex storage (VDS) technology, combining this with additional test substance facilities for detailed testing. Additionally, a personalised test menu set-up is available.

The test card contains nearly 5,000 test ampoules, including organs, allergy test, foods, allergens, heavy metals, microbial plane, deficiency symptoms, buccal currents test set, energy screening test set, vital teeth, special ampoules, remedy effectivity/tolerance/dosage.

The device owns a built-in System Information (SI) PULSER unit, which records therapy signals on a magnetic strip. The patient may wear the SI-Card in between consultations as supportive therapy.

What issues does the device identify?

Text Expert Plus provides a more comprehensive analysis and identifies the causes of the patient's health concerns.

- Nervous system disturbance
- Toxin and pathogen load
- Acute and Chronic diseases
- Intestinal Dysbiosis
- Detailed Food and Non-food Sensitivities and Allergies
- Detailed Organ problems
- Acid-alkaline composition
- Inflammation foci
- Detoxification issues
- Mental and psychological stress detection
- Hormone, vitamin, enzyme, and mineral deficiencies
- Electromagnetic Pollution
- Dental Issues
- Meridian and Energy Imbalances

The benefits of using this device

- It facilitates a holistic, targeted, and in-depth scanning experience, without side effects.
- It identifies the root cause of the illness rather than just summarising impaired body systems.
- It plays a paramount role in prevention, as it can detect disease before symptoms manifest.
- It produces magnetic strip treatment cards.
- It offers remedy tolerance and effectivity testing.
- It offers emotional health scanning by chakra assessment.
- It evaluates the Biological Index by looking into mesenchyme function in the connective tissue.
- It provides functional performance profiling as a % of health or illness.
- The practitioner may personalise the screening areas if there is no need to test the whole body.
- The relationship between practitioner and patient is improved.

Is this device for you?

Test Expert Plus can be used by qualified healthcare practitioners such as:

- Nutritionists to assess hormonal imbalances, nutrient deficiencies, organ dysfunctions, intestinal health, food and non-food sensitivities and allergies, toxic and microbial overloads, and emotional imbalances.
- Wellness centres and spas (only by a qualified healthcare practitioner on site) that offer personalised services and results-driven therapies. Toxin overloads, detoxification capabilities, and emotional issues can be identified as well as suggesting the correct remedy for the patient.
- Sports clubs and football teams (only by a qualified healthcare practitioner on site) to identify the root causes of injuries and to prevent them from reoccurring. The patient experiences faster recovery time and receives personalised training and meal plans.
- Complementary and alternative (CAM) practitioners who offer holistic and comprehensive assessments to their patients. The screening helps the practitioner identify the systems under stress and the most effective treatments in one hour. It also provides an in-depth analysis of emotional and psychological states, the cornerstone of integrative medicine. The biological index scanning is a great tool to track the results.

- Functional medicine doctors diagnose organ dysfunctions to assess pathogen exposure and allergies without waiting for laboratory test results. The device can also determine medication effectivity, dosage, and tolerance.
- Paediatrics can examine using a non-invasive and gentle method without complicated and painful lab testing. The Remedy Test is immensely beneficial for children for a quick resolution. There is also a possibility of testing organic samples such as saliva or urine.

Are you looking for a quicker test to run before the in-depth analysis?

Then, we invite you to combine the Test Expert Plus device with the Check Medical Sport. We suggest using Check Medical Sport for initial screening; based on the results, the patient will be further screened to gain a more comprehensive understanding of the root causes of the health concerns.

Are you looking to provide a truly holistic service to your patients?

Look no further! The combined use of the diagnostic and therapeutic devices offers a truly holistic wellness experience to your patients. We invite you to check out the Med Matrix and Med Select devices.
